Marrero, LA & Annie Armstrong!

Following the Civil War, a northern businessman purchased land in South Louisiana and named it Amesville. In 1916, the U. S. Postmaster changed the named to Marrero to honor a local hero.

Ames Boulevard Baptist Church was a thriving place of worship and activity during its' heyday, but as the younger people moved to New Orleans and Baton Rouge, its' tiny remnant of elderly members were facing the possibility of closing their doors.

But the Lord brought a miracle to their doorstep as they voted to hire Troy Gause to mow their grass. They quickly learned "Troy Gause, Landscaper" was also "Troy Gause, Church Planting Missionary" with the North American Mission Board, funded by the Annie Armstrong Missions Offering.

Troy had just started a church but needed a place to meet. It was clear God was putting them together, not to close their doors, but to burst them wide open with the Gospel. Now the sign out front says Cross Community Church and there is life back in their building. Salvations and Baptisms are happening! Thank you to all who give to Annie Armstrong!

Praise the LORD for 85 years
of blessings upon
